

Entire Lorch Family at Odds With Red Hunters

Arkadelphia to Vote on Airport Bond

ARKADELPHIA (UP) — Arkadelphia voters will decide Nov. 26 in a special bond election whether a new airport will be built.

Mayor Ben D. Gray said the federal government would match local funds and supervise construction of the proposed airstrip. Plans for the landing field call for a blacktop runway 3,500 feet long and 60 feet wide. It would be located across U. S. Highway 67 from the new Tatum Corp. manufacturing plant south of the city.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Both gray-haired Grace Lorch and her husband, Lee, a white mathematics professor at a college for Negroes here, are at odds with Communist-hunting congressional committees.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) yesterday warned Mrs. Lorch that she faced a possible contempt citation for refusing to testify behind closed doors before the Senate subcommittee on Internal Security and gave her 24 hours in which to get a lawyer.

Lorch, who joined the faculty of Philander Smith College for Negroes here in 1954, already faces a similar contempt charge. He now awaits the decision of a federal judge in Dayton, Ohio, who heard the case last April. The government charged that Lorch refused to answer questions about possible associations he might have had with Communists.

Mrs. Lorch, accompanied by her 13-year-old daughter Alice, appeared at the subcommittee hearing in Memphis following a subpoena which, Mrs. Lorch said, stemmed from her action in the Little Rock school integration controversy. The committee has not revealed what questions it wants to ask her.

Sen. Jenner said the Senate group, headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), was interested in rooting out subversive activities in the Mid-South for purpose of determining whether new laws are needed.

The Lorchs live in the immediate neighborhood of Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas Branch of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People. They moved there a few weeks ago after a brief stay at one of Little Rock's best apartment houses. They previously had lived in a house in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

A Negro newspaper reporter wrote in the weekly Chicago Defender (Sept. 21) that she was the cause of Lorchs' sudden move from the apartment house.

Correspondent Ethel Payne, here to cover the Little Rock integration story, said she was invited to supper by the Lorchs. She wrote:

"Hardly had we exchanged greetings when the telephone rang for Dr. Lorch. It was the manager who told him she understood he was entertaining a colored guest and this was in violation of the rules and when would they be vacating."

The next morning early the Lorchs received a letter from the manager asking them to vacate by noon of that day. At 1 p. m. the Lorchs were still house-hunting. But said Dr. Lorch in his mild soft voice:

"I'd sooner be dead than to have to live under this kind of regimentation."

Lorch, 43, formerly was a member of the faculty of City College of New York and Pennsylvania State College.

While in the East, the Arkansas State Press—Little Rock Negro weekly—once reported Lorch "played a leading role in the unsuccessful campaign to force the giant Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to admit colored tenants to its huge Stuyvesant Town housing project, during the course of which he lost two academic posts." The Lorchs' project is located in New York City.

He came to Little Rock from Nashville, Tenn., where he was head of the mathematics department of Fisk University which—like Philander Smith—is an institution for Negroes.

While in Tennessee, he was state vice president of the NAACP. The Southern School News, published in Nashville, identified the Lorchs in its Sept., 1954 issue as among the parents of three white children seeking to enter a Negro elementary school. Alice Lorch then was in the fourth grade.

The News quoted Lorch as threatening to file suit if his daughter was expelled.

CAPTURED — State policeman Lt. A. B. Noge searches Montana State Prison escapee William A. Brown, 23, after his capture near Lava Hot Springs, Idaho. Brown, who allegedly kidnapped and raped a young housewife, threatened two young Canadian men and threatened all three with death during a wild day and night drive through two states, gave himself up to police after a 2800-mile long distance phone call to his mother in Jamestown, N. Cold, Hunger Finishes Off an Elephant

MITCHELL HOLLOW, N. Y. (AP) — Siam, the Catskills elephant, munched today on whiskey-soaked feed while residents of this area relaxed. The unlikely safari was over.

The 2-ton female, considerably chastened by a cold and hunger, submitted meekly to her captors yesterday.

This was not the same girl, who had been "jumping" in the Catskill Mountains for 13 days, dreading safaris of all sorts, aircraft and her trainers.

Today she was back at the farm, where she had been working. "To settle her mind," she again will take up the television and circus life that she had forsaken for a simple pastoral existence.

A posse trailed the tired animal yesterday several miles through woods until she finally halted near a quarry. She had been caught and broken away twice during the day.

Alfred Vidbel, one of her trainers simply went up to her and talked. She listened while an assistant put hobbling chains on her legs.

Then she lumbered up a ramp and was off to the farm she had fled when she was frightened by galloping horses.

A veterinarian, after making a quick check with a zoo, administered a shot of penicillin and prescribed whiskey in the feed. Two tumblerfuls were dropped in.

The veterinarian said that Siam's temperature was one degree below normal and that she had a cold in her eyes. But he found the 13-year-old suffering mostly from upset nerves and shock.

Mrs. Vidbel said Siam received an excited and noisy welcome from her two fellow performers, Bombay and Elbi, also females. They have been together about seven years.

The three spent last night together in a van in order to keep Siam warm.

Negroes Again Go Into L. R. School

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Nine Negro students went into Little Rock Central High today unescorted by Federal troops and without incident.

They arrived in private automobiles.

Newsman and photographer saw only seven of the Negroes, who integrated the school, six weeks ago, arrive and enter the building by a side entrance. However, an army information officer announced that all nine were in school and there were no incidents.

Must Catch Up in Cold War, Sarnoff Warns

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrialist David Sarnoff, said today that time for victory in the cold war is running out under the pressure of Soviet success in weapon technology.

"We are to win the cold war, at least obtain the upper hand in it. It must be done before mankind is overwhelmed by the holocaust of hydrogen war," Sarnoff said.

Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America and a retired Army brigadier general, prepared his remarks for the annual meeting of the Army of the United States. Sarnoff said the Moscow announcement last August of a successful test of an intercontinental ballistic missile "may be exaggerated but it is not safe to rely on that assumption." Perfection of an ICBM is inevitable because "both sides know its principle," said Sarnoff.

County Effort Successful in Bangs Battle

Hempstead County has been declared as a Brucellosis Modified-Certified area for a period of three years by the Director of the Animal Disease Eradication Division, Agricultural Research Service, USDA, Washington, D. C., according to information received from Dr. L. T. Fisher, acting veterinarian in charge of the Department in Arkansas.

Cattle owners have achieved this outstanding accomplishment in the eradication of Brucellosis or Bangs Disease and are to be congratulated for the all-out effort. With a continued cooperative effort by everyone concerned this disease should disappear, says Dr. Fisher.

To prevent the spread of Brucellosis into Hempstead County and to continue the recognition throughout the United States of America as a Brucellosis Modified-Certified county, the following requirements must be complied with:

1. All herds of cattle in which Brucellosis is known to exist (herd infected on last test) must be placed under a quarantine. Range herds should be quarantined on the range or where located. Infected herds will be released from quarantine when they have passed two consecutive negative tests at intervals of not less than 60 days. The owner will be advised that his quarantine has been lifted when the herd has qualified for release from quarantine. Any animal from a quarantine herd may be sold for slaughter on a permit issued by any regulatory employee, state or federal, or an accredited veterinarian.

2. Auction Sales Banns Cattle passing through these sales banns from negative herds in certified counties are not required to be tested when moving back to the farm in Arkansas. Cattle originating in non-certified counties which have not been tested within 30 days must be tested at these yards, without expense to the state or federal government, before moving to farms in certified counties within Arkansas.

3. Interstate Movement of Cattle From or Into Modified-Certified Brucellosis Free Counties You are referred to the pocket reference explaining federal requirements governing the interstate movement of cattle, a copy of which is available at the County Agent's office. Cattle moving interstate must comply with regulations of state of destination. These requirements can be explained to the inspector in your county authorized to issue permits.

Inspectors have been in Hempstead County since May 1 testing all known herds of cattle for Bangs Disease and as a result more than 700 head of reactor cattle have been removed for slaughter. An indemnity was paid the owner for reactor animals on the basis of $25.00 per head for grade and $50.00 per head for registered animals. During the period more than 3500 head of heifer calves of the proper age have been vaccinated for Bangs Disease.

At this time seven inspectors or technicians of the Animal Disease Eradication Division are in Hempstead County to complete testing of reactor herds, issuing permits for movement of animals for slaughter market, testing suspect animals in certain herds, vaccinating 4 to 8 months of age heifer calves and certain other necessary work.

These inspectors may be contacted on Monday, Wednesday or Thursday afternoon of each week at the County Agent's office in the Hempstead County Courthouse or at the Sutton Auction Sales Barn on Tuesday all day.

Soviet Power Struggle Indicates Zhukov Has Picked Up Strength

French Pick Socialist to Form Regime

PARIS (AP) — Radical Socialist Felix Gaillard, 37-year-old financial wizard and advocate of national belt-tightening, was asked today to form a government to fill the French political vacuum.

President Rene Coty called on the bespectacled young advocate of "austerity" after the National Assembly rejected Socialist Guy Mollet 290-227.

Gaillard, finance minister in the last government of Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury, indicated he would sound out other political leaders before accepting or rejecting the mandate tonight.

If he tries and succeeds, he will be the youngest French premier of modern history.

Mollet's chances were doomed when the Conservative Independents and Peasants, with 99 Assembly votes, decided to oppose him. This retailed for Socialist refusal earlier to support independent candidate Antoine Pinay.

Mollet's votes came principally from his own Socialists, the Radical Socialists and the Catholic Popular Republicans. They were the three major elements in the left-of-center Cabinet he proposed. The Conservatives teamed up with the Communists and the extreme-right Poujadists to defeat him.

The Cabinet crisis now is rounding out a month.

Gaillard on some previous occasions has had solid backing from the Independents, and they may hold the balance if any attempt by him to form a government.

Calling the signals for the Bourgès-Maunoury finance program, Gaillard succeeded in winning approval of new taxes, reduced spending and strict government controls of imports and exports.

He persuaded the Assembly last August to place a ceiling of 15 billion dollars on the 1958 budget — 1 billion less than this year's budget.

Says FBI Action Wast of Money

WEST MEMPHIS (UP) — U. S. Rep. E. C. Tamm charged yesterday that the Justice Department's sending of 20 extra FBI agents to Little Rock in September was "a waste of money."

Gathings was answering a letter sent to him by FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, in which Hoover denied an earlier Gathings charge that FBI agents had employed "Gestapo tactics" in obtaining information during the Central High School integration crisis.

Hoover's letter was released Saturday by the Little Rock bureau of the FBI.

Gathings said the ordering of the agents was unwarranted. "It was a waste of money as was the action of President Eisenhower — on the advice of Atty. Gen. Brownell — in sending troops with bayonets to Little Rock," he said.

The West Memphis congressman did not mention Hoover's denial of Gathings' charge that FBI agents were "arrogant" in their investigatory procedure.

Will Get a New Job, Announces Khrushchev

MOSCOW (UP) — Soviet Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev said tonight that Marshal Georgi Zhukov, deposed as defense minister, will soon get a new job corresponding to his "experience and qualifications."

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP) — Indications grew today that Marshal Georgi Zhukov had rallied unexpected support in a showdown battle over power and policies inside the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party.

The delay in announcing a decision on whether Zhukov would remain a member of the ruling party Presidium contributed to an impression that a battle was on between the marshal and Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

The impression was heightened by the light Moscow censorship. Even the Communist press outside the Soviet Union seemed confused by the blackout on information.

Hints of a behind-the-scenes struggle came from editorials in Soviet newspapers, impressions of Western diplomats in Moscow and dispatches from Communist correspondents in the Soviet capital.

Inferences were drawn from reports the Central Committee had been meeting off and on since the 61-year-old marshal's ouster as defense minister Saturday. It had been expected to make an important announcement early today after an all-night session, but it remained silent.

However, news correspondents with experience in Moscow said the delay on any public announcement may be due simply to the mechanics of giving advance word to party committees throughout the country.

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of the Soviet Union were believed locked today in a showdown battle over power and policy touched off by the decision to fire Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov.

The Central Committee of the Communist party, which has been meeting off and on ever since Zhukov was ousted Saturday, had been expected to make an important announcement during the early morning hours.

Reports reaching London indicated it would tell of Zhukov's removal from the 15-man party Presidium, its all-powerful politburo of which he became a full member only four months ago.

But both Moscow radio and the Moscow press remained silent. Hints filtered through the light censorship in the Soviet capital that the committee was still grappling with its problems after an all night session.

Senior Editor of Moscow Newspapers were called yesterday to a conference at which Western observers believed they were briefed on the expected announcement.

Louis B. Mayer, Motion Picture Giant, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Louis B. Mayer, the motion picture giant who won box office supremacy with a torrent of talent and a tug at the heartstrings, died today of severe anemia brought on by acute leukemia. He was 72 years old.

Mayer, one of the architects of the cossus known as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, had been undergoing treatment at the UCLA Medical Center for more than a month.

His condition deteriorated last night and he died 25 minutes after midnight.

The stocky movie tycoon had been hospitalized in San Francisco last August for treatment of his anemic condition. He made progress there and was permitted to return to his home in Bel Air — a fashionable section of Los Angeles — on Sept. 16. He suffered a relapse only a few days later, however, and was taken to UCLA Hospital where he remained until his death.

The hospital said the full diagnosis of Mayer's illness was severe anemia due to few platelets, with internal bleeding secondary to acute leukemia.

Mayer retired as head of MGM in 1951, but talked only a few months ago of trying to regain

Farm Bureau Policy Meets Are Planned

Nine Farm Bureau Policy Development meetings will be held in Hempstead county during the week of November 4th announced N. B. Coleman of Guernsey Community, President of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau with 832 family memberships.

The nine meetings are so arranged that every member family and other individuals may easily attend. Mr. Coleman and other leaders who have been planning these policy development meetings believe that now is the time of rare opportunity for leadership in American agriculture. The present is the time to look at problems in the local communities and the county with a lot of local problem solving.

Then with a togetherness and understanding go to the state and national level with the outside problems. The real solution lies in the efforts of farmers themselves working through their county and state Farm Bureaus on to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In the planned meetings scheduled for next week a community leader will be in charge with the assistance of a county voluntary worker. The community arrived at problems needing outside community assistance are to be brought to the countryside meeting at 7:30 o'clock on Thursday evening, November 7th, at the county courtroom. At the county meeting problems are to be determined to submit to the Arkansas Farm Bureau convention in Little Rock on November 25.

Five meetings are to be conducted Monday evening November 4th, beginning at 7:30 as follows: with community leader, Fulton for Baid P. Ayre and Watercrest townships at Cox cafe with J. Brooks Shultz and N. B. Coleman; Washington school for Ozan and Minecrack townships with Moss Rowe and Raymond Peace; and Jewel Burke store for Garland and Nolan townships with B. B. Arnold and Ned Purley.

Dreams of Man Have No Particular Age Limit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Adolescence, they say, is a time of crazy dreams. But if you put a window in the head of most middle-aged people and let a teen-ager peek at the dreams therein — well, the kid would lust his quoniam from laughing.

The hidden goals of the middle-aged American are as odd as those of any other juvenile delinquent a third his age. Here, for example, are a few hoarded ambitions one man would like to achieve who has crossed the 40th milestone.

To become a passenger on the second space ship that makes a successful round trip voyage in the moon.

Fate of Zhukov Means Very Little

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zhukov may come and go. But the facts of the world situation go on. May be not forever, but at least long enough to make the replacement of a Soviet defense minister not much more than a ripple in a whirlpool.

It is tempting to speculate, of course, as Marshal Georgi Zhukov simply getting the bounce, or is he being kicked upstairs?

Is he, maybe, being groomed for the top job? Or for a special "be nice to America" assignment, in view of his onetime close association with President Eisenhower?

Or should he break out his wartime field boots and park for a spell in Siberia?

The simple answer is that nobody in the West seems to know.

Some of the Communist newspapers in Europe say with an air of Moscow-fied authority that Zhukov is in line for an important new assignment. That could mean anything or nothing. Zhukov could wind up running Russia's whole show—or with a title befitting his war eminence—shuffling papers in an outer Kremlin office.

This wouldn't matter, outside of Russia, except as a possible tip-off to Russia's intentions toward the rest of the world in the months ahead. And there is no reason to believe those intentions have been changed by Zhukov's being relieved of his duties, as the Soviet government puts it, any more than U. S. foreign policy was affected by the voluntary retirement of Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

The broad outlines of the immediate future should be plain to anybody who reads the newspapers:

1. Russia is stirring up trouble, maybe even a war, in the Middle East. The Russians feel full of beans over the success of their Sputnik and the progress of their long-range missile program. They may or may not be calmed down by the recently announced power of American missiles which, chances are, would not yet have been announced if the Russians hadn't launched the first satellite.

2. On both sides of the Iron Curtain a defensive beefing-up is being

"within five years and possibly sooner"—that both Russia and the United States will have mass production of the transoceanic missiles, he predicted.

Then will come "dreadful parity," Sarnoff forecast. He contended that the logic of not starting a war with those weapons might not be a restraining influence—"entirely, raised to a pitch of hysteria by the very magnitude of the menace, may vanquish reason."

In another prepared address, Dr. Willard F. Libby, atomic energy commissioner, told of the progress in educating the civilian population to the realities of nuclear warfare.

"It has been pleasing to notice," he said, "how the newspaper reporters and the communication media have helped in telling people about radioactive fallout."

"Three years ago, there were hardly 100 people in the world outside the atomic energy projects who had a clear understanding of the nature of radioactive fallout. Now I think it would be safe to say that perhaps one-third of the people in the Western world have a fairly clear understanding."

A recent poll indicated that as many as half of the people in the United States understood the rudiments.

A speaker hinted yesterday that the Army is hoping the Defense Department will relax its limitations on the permitted range of Army missiles.

Gen. Willard G. Wyman, head of the Continental Army Command, discussed the need for ground force missiles in addressing the Assn. of the U. S. Army yesterday.

"I consider it dangerous to fetter our development now with arbitrary range limitations and rigid definitions," Wyman said.

A directive now limits Army authority to a 200-mile range for bombardment type missiles, and to a 100-mile range for anti-aircraft guided missiles.

At a subsequent news conference, Wyman was asked about the remark.

Wyman replied he thought that when former Secretary of Defense Wilson issued the restrictions, in a directive on the roles and missions of the armed forces, he recognized that the area on missile development and use was "somewhat cloudy."

And, said the general, he thought the directive recognized that "there would be changes from time to time."

Wyman put his views into a speech which he read. But another high officer discarded a prepared speech which took pointed issue with some philosophies and claims of the Air Force and limited his actual talk to a mild discourse on the Army's role in air defense.

Li. Gen. Stanley R. Michelsen, who is retiring as chief of the Army's Air Defense Command, scrapped his original text, which said such things as "interceptor aircraft are obsolescent" and "the Army's present Nike anti-aircraft missile can reach and kill any bomber that flies today."

Defense Department officials, conscious of interservice feuding and of a House subcommittee's intentions to look into interservice rivalries, were reported to be imploring Air Force officers to make no angry public rebuttal.

Today the association—composed of past and present members of the Army—was going to devote its attention to strategy with a program of talks and panel discussions.

School Construction Bill Already Doomed

By S. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal aid for school construction, twice turned down by Congress in the last two years, has been quietly tucked for a House committee pigeonhole at the 1958 session.

A decision to drop the school aid fight temporarily was disclosed today by Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W.Va.) chairman of the House subcommittee on general education.

Politics, the bitter school segregation issue, and Democratic irritation with President Eisenhower's leadership in last session's school aid battle were all factors contributing to the decision, Bailey said.

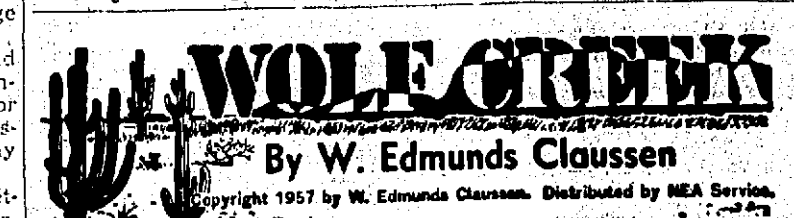

The rabbit, hare, beaver, copy and sheep are used mostly for fur in making men's hats. The copy is a member of the otter family.

ing attempted, Eisenhower confers with Britain's Prime Minister on ways to strengthen the Western Alliance. The President may go to Paris in December to lend his personal prestige to the buildup effort. China's Mao Tse-tung definitely is going to Moscow next month for a talk with the Kremlin brass. And all signs point to a rebirth of the combination, the old Red mutual association, or something very like it.

So, Zhukov or not Zhukov, the mushroom-shaped clouds gather. Almost everybody—even it sometimes appears, the men in the Kremlin—hopes they can be broken up. So far as the Middle East goes, the next two weeks may tell the story. The blowup which the Russians have been launching, and fomenting, is supposed to take place soon after yesterday's Turkish election. So far there seems no sign of actual warfare. But the United States, Britain and Turkey are maneuvering hard. The Turkish coast just in case.

CHAPTER XIX

Gallo's glance shifted to Morgan. The gunman was standing motionless to one side with an arrogant grin on his mouth. He wasn't ready for the showdown. When he chose one it would be with the variable factors all in his favor. Meantime Dave was conscious of Kains walking toward them. The foreman asked sharply, "Got bones to pick, Dave?"

"Did you know you have two saddlebags on the payroll? They don't seem to belong to this outfit."

His gaze was concentrated on Morgan and he saw the break come in the narrow, dark face. The man's hand slipped forward then paused and he rubbed it against his gun butt. Then a sound came from Morgan's throat. "All right," he said softly. "Just wait, mister. There'll come a time when you'll eat that."

"Shut up!" Kains muttered darkly. "You fellows get back to the bunkhouse. Maybe you don't like working for him any better than me. But what he says goes. I'll tell you different!"

An expelling breath rode through Morgan as he wheeled. He drifted toward the bunkhouse, hands opening and knotting into fists at his sides. Gallo walked with him.

Dave turned to Kains. He was thinking of Green saddling his sorrel beside the pasture fence. It had been his own living mount, the horse Juan Gentry had loaned him.

"Kains, you had your pair side-track me so I couldn't hear the orders you gave Green. Where'd you send him?"

For a moment Dave expected Kains' anger would get the better of his judgment.

"I'd like to tell you it's none of your business. We're throwing out a guard to catch slow-alkers lolling on their heels. Been enough stuff butchered for blowflies to make a cattleman sick."

There was no means at present by which Dave could test the complete truth of Kains' answer. Dave said slowly, "Maybe you ought to send out more riders. Let's catch them redhanded."

"There's linemen watchin' the north from Horsehead clean down to Piny Hollow. We'll catch 'em sometime."

"You follow the tracks?" Kains looked at him with a smoldering revulsion. For one Dave could understand his wrath, for no cattleman knew anything but loathing over good beef rotting on the ground. "We followed them," Kains said. "The tracks break up in Wolf Creek. That saloon gets some of our beef."

"I don't think so. Not if Quing knows it."

"Don't be a fool!" Kains growled out darkly.

They were walking closer to the bunkhouse and Dave thought, silently, here still remained the matter of Green using his liveried mount. He would have to wait until the full consequences of the night guard's ride revealed themselves, for Kains would give him no straight answer. Dave's gaze followed the boot-torn tracks cutting across the trail which led to Green's shack. If this had been Green's destination, then Kains was out to cause him trouble.

Dave stooped below the lintel and had his first swift impression of the bunkhouse. Most of these riders Dave had already seen in Wolf Creek. There was room for a dozen men the bunk built in here along the unbroken wall. On the floor beside an unoccupied bunk Ferris had placed his saddle bags. He was certain then that Ferris had had no inclination of any scheme on Kains' part. What he had had the better to pasture. He surely hadn't known the saloon was to be used.

But it was Morgan who gave Dave a shock. He was sitting cross-legged on the floor drawing ter's admission to the Negro school was denied.

In his appearance before the House subcommittee in September 1954, Lorch said he was not then a member of the Communist Party but refused to answer further questioning.

Fourteen months after he was cited for contempt, the charges were dropped, only to be refilled later.

Until the dispute over integration of Central High, the Lorches apparently had lived quiet lives here.

But Mrs. Lorch was present the day the Arkansas National Guard, under orders of Gov. Orval Faubus and in opposition to a federal court order, turned away Negro students trying to enter Little Rock Central High School.

Elizabeth Eckford, a 15-year-old 10th grader, was the first to try to pass through the armed guardsmen.

She walked into a crowd of some 500 white adults and along a line of soldiers. The crowd followed. Some of them shouted at her as she tried once, then again, to pass through the Guard cordon blocking her way.

Then the girl made her way to where Ferris lay. "You never were a pretty thing. Now you look like your kisser's been stroked by a mule!"

He stopped on an indrawn breath as Dave's hand bunched his shirt front. He said darkly, "Take them filthy hands off me. I'll tell you just one thing."

Dave jerked him roughly from the upright. "Queen rode off on my sorrel. Gallo, I pick you to explain about that. Where'd Green ride?"

"I'll ram that down your teeth," Gallo said.

Dave knew this man had made up his mind to kill him. In that split instant, Gallo's fist shot forward.

Gallo tossed an amused look in the direction of the pole bunks a sidewalk bench at a bus stop where Mrs. Lorch joined her. It was reported that the teen-aged girl sobbed as the guardsmen cleared away the crowd which gathered around the bench.

Mrs. Lorch told newsmen in Memphis she objected to appearing at an executive session of the Senate subcommittee because, "anything I have to say I want plenty of people to hear it."

Aged Negro Dies of Injuries

HELENA (AP) — A 70-year-old Negro man died early today of injuries suffered yesterday when fire destroyed his 3-room frame home here.

Hospital attendants said Dan Jackson, who lived alone, suffered burns on 98 per cent of his body. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

That would work on all people, including Russians and Chinese.

To find again a good $2 hotel room, a good pair of $5 shoes, a good two-bit haircut — given by a silent barber — and a good $45 sharkskin suit with two pairs of pants and a vest.

To know for sure the life ahead will hold as many pleasant memories as the years behind.

Those are one man's hogdog-podgy dreams. What are yours?

DOROTHY DIX

Not a Word Received From Lost Boy Friend

Dear Dorothy Dix: Here's another "lost boy friend" problem — which I guess is getting pretty tiresome to you by now. Anyway, Lenny and I went together gal with a "lost boy friend" problem as much as I loved him (which was plenty), we dated no one else and were thoroughly congenial. It was one of those romances that seemed ideal. Suddenly, at the beginning of vacation this year, he stopped seeing me, or calling. He's been working away from home all summer to earn his expenses at medical school next year and I wonder if he might have considered me an interference to his college work. I just started nursing's training, myself, and know how hard one must study. How can I let Lenny know that I would not interfere or make demand on his time?

DENISE
Dear Denise: You have already reached the only conclusion that occurs to me. The boy is either lost, strayed or stolen, and I'd discount the first and last. Apparently he has just strayed into the fields of higher learning. Don't be discouraged. He'll undoubtedly come back, and since you are in the same profession, the return engagement will be played even more effectively. Study as hard as you can, have fun with other girls, and be patient until your paths cross again.

Dead Dorothy Dix: Whenever my fiancé and I have a date, his 19-year-old sister lags along. To say I'm fed up is to put it mildly. I can't remember the last time we went out without her. I admire strong family ties, but don't you think he's carrying brotherly love too far?

Dear Dixie: I most certainly do! Ask him why sister can't be left home once in a while.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it possible for a boy to learn to respect a girl once he has lost respect for her? I want to regain my boy friend's good opinion.

A. J.
Dear A. J.: At best, it would be a very difficult thing to do. The lesson you can learn is to be more careful in the future. Guard your reputation above everything else. Once lost, it's almost impossible to get back.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are a group of young married couples who have known each other many years. We go out together on dinner dates, dancing parties and celebrate each other's birthdays, anniversaries, etc., together. Now it has come to our attention that one friend's wife is seeing another woman's husband quite frequently — alone. The rest of us feel terrible; we don't enjoy our dates together anymore. What should we do about the situation? Should we tell, and if so, to whom?

TED
Dear Ted: Suppose you men take the erring husband out to lunch and you wives hang out to the gal who's gone astray. Tell them what you think of them, and suggest that it would be pretty messy if either husband and wife learn about them. Since the secrecy of their affair was undoubtedly half the fun, it will soon lose its savor under the white light of publicity.

his position with the big studio. He said he would like to go back to the "right group" got control of MGM again. This group lost control in 1951 and Mayer was replaced then by Dore Schary.

Mayer and Schary had feuded considerably before their parting. One of Mayer's picture-making credos was that every movie should have "heart" — a term that might roughly be translated to mean sentiment.

Some of his critics said the thing Mayer called "heart" was "corn."

It was on this point that Mayer and Schary collided during the making of "The Red Badge of Courage." Mayer didn't like it, Schary did. It turned out to be an artistic success, but a box office flop.

Fortified Reinhardt, co-producer of the film, once said he "had to fight two civil wars—the one in the script and the one between Schary and Mayer."

Mayer retired shortly after the film was released.

If Mayer's productions were sometimes called inartistic, they were seldom called unsuccessful.

His films were among the biggest money-makers in history. A few examples are the Andy Hardy series, with Mickey Rooney; the Dr. Kildare series, with Lionel Barrymore; "Mrs. Miniver," with Greer Garson; and "Dumbo," with Clark Gable.

Mayer was born in Minsk, Russia, July 4, 1885. His family moved to St. John New Brunswick when he was only 3 months old. There he began his business career — helping his father in a ship salvage operation — after a brief public school education.

He entered the fledgling movie industry as an exhibitor in Massachusetts in 1907. He became a theater owner-manager, then a film distributor and finally — needing more films to show — the organizer of a production company.

He came to Hollywood in 1917 advanced on the appeals court docket for early trial at St. Louis.

this morning, however, with no mention of either Zhukov or the central committee meeting.

This was taken in some quarters as an indication that Zhukov had marshaled unexpected strength to resist the move depriving him of control over the Soviet military machine.

The Communist Daily Worker in London said in a dispatch from its Moscow correspondent that Zhukov got into trouble with the work of party commissars in the army ranks. These are the party appointees who keep tabs on army and from 1924 to 1951 was executive in charge of production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio. MGM climbed to greatness under the production genius of Irving Thalberg. When he died in 1938 Mayer took over direct control of production.

Eliah, Mo., is really the back-wind spelling of the German "Halle." Early settlers found it a good "halling" place for water and rest.

personnel independent of the military command.

The Daily Worker correspondent would have access to information not available to other Western newsmen.

During the night Moscow editors imposed a complete communications blackout for a three-hour period on Western newsmen in the Soviet capital.

When it was finally possible to get through by telephone from London just before dawn the correspondents were able to say little except that much of their copy was being held up by censorship.

There was some speculation that Zhukov might have precipitated a showdown with Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev by advising — as a professional military man — a more cautious approach to the Middle East crisis.

Long Time
Since SWC
Was on Top

DALLAS (AP) — When Texas A&M was voted No. 1 in the nation's college football today it marked the first time in seven years for A Southwest Conference team to attain that rating.

Coach Paul Bryan of the Aggies obviously hopes his team won't repeat the fate that befell that 1950 Southern Methodist evening that was voted No. 1 in mid-season.

The SMU team of 1950 was pushed to No. 1 when it won five straight games. The very next week Southern Methodist was beaten by Texas 23-20 and fell out of the No. 1 spot. In a hurry.
Not only that but SMU went on to lose three of its last four games and wound up tied for next to last in the Southwest Conference as Texas took the championship and played in the Cotton Bowl.

Coach Bryan was asked at College Station Saturday night what he would think about being No. 1 in the nation, since it appeared there was a good chance of that coming about after the Aggies had beaten Baylor 14-0 and Oklahoma, the No. 1 team, had trouble eking out over Colorado 14-13. A&M was No. 2 at the time.

"I'm not thinking about anything except those Hogs," he said.
"We have to play Arkansas next Saturday at Fayetteville."

Bryan added that he never did any selecting of teams anyway.
"When you don't pick them you don't have to explain when they get beat," he said.

The Southwest Conference has had three teams wind up No. 1 in the nation—Southern Methodist of 1953, Texas Christian of 1955 and Texas A&M of 1957.

Tibbs Gets Decision Over Ippolito

NEW YORK — For a fighter who has lost more than he has won, little Tommy Tibbs gets a lot of work.

And the aggressive New England lightweight champion is going to see plenty more action off his lopsided decision in 10 rounds over Frankie Ippolito of New York at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

It was Tibbs' debut on a network television scrum and he scored a hit with the fans.

"How did he ever lose 43 fights," said a puzzled fan after watching the chunky 23-year-old Bostonian floor, cut and pound I-ppolito, the 9-5 favorite.

"Mostly because he has to give away a lot of weight whenever he fights," said Manager Charley Goldman of Boston.

The victory was Tibbs' 40th. He has lost 43 and drawn three. It was Ippolito's seventh defeat against 20 victories.

Tibbs weighs 134 to Ippolito's 138.

Tommy belted Ippolito's body and head throughout the 10 rounds with sweeping left hooks and occasional rights.

In the second, Tibbs dropped his taller rival twice with left hooks to the chin but Referee Larry Napp ruled the first clip downward was a slip and not a knock-down. Frankie also bled from the nose in the second round and from a cut over his right eye in the fourth.

Referee Napp had Tibbs far ahead, 9-1. Judge Sam Iron made it 6-3-1 and Judge Frankie Fallam, 7-3.

Emmet Cagers Lose Pair to Fouke

Emmet Cagers lost a doubleheader last night at Fouke, with the senior boys' game going into a three minute overtime.

Score at the end of the regular game was 46-48. Cooper of Fouke, who scored 30 points to lead his team to victory, made three charity tosses in the overtime for the 49 to 48 win.

Larry Faulkner hit 14, James Cummings 11, Tillman Coffee, 8,
Gary Coffee 7 and David Dugan
6 for Coach Malcolm Burnette's squad.

Jo Ann Scott sacked 12 and Vera Green 10 to lead the Fouke senior girls to a 40 to 29 margin. Juanita Dugan of Emmet was high for the night with 15, followed by Barbara Faulkner with 10 and Carolyn Dougan with 4.

Emmet guards are Ann Trexler, Polly Graham, Lorraine Theis with Rosie Otter altering between forward and guard position.

Reported by Peggy Cummings of Emmet.

Comments of Coaches

(This column will appear each week through football season. Today's comments pertain to the Hope-Hot Springs game and the scouting report on Camden.)

Coach Leon Turpin:
"We were just beaten by a better team. One reason they beat us so bad was that several of our boys got hurt and we didn't play them anymore for fear of further injury."

We celebrated Homecoming too much before the game instead of waiting until after the game."

Coach Gordon Beasley:
"Camden runs from one of the oldest formations the Bobcats will face all year. Its a double wing formation with a quarterback. This means they have the potential for an outstanding passing attack and also a power type of running game.

Of course, when we saw them they were not at full strength, but it should be this Friday.

It will take 100% effort by the Cats if we are to continue leading our district.

Coach Don Seyler:
"I think Camden will be the team to beat to win the conference.
Their defense held good and the Panthers showed they have a good football team. They have a good fullback who can run wide or in the middle of the line. They also have very good passing. They run out of the double wing formation.
This is a good formation for passing and running reverses.

of Minnesota, held at the

ple attend the Minnesota State

Aggies, Texas in Favored Title Roles

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Of The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies again showed that even the best college football teams can't afford to let down for a moment in the Associated Press weekly ranking poll.

Oklahoma proved the point as it slipped to second after a close call against Colorado in the opinion of writers and broadcasters from 36 states and the District of Columbia.

It was the second time this season that Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten in 5 consecutive games, had lost the lead just because they didn't win decisively. They dropped behind Michigan State after their 21-7 victory over Texas last week, then dropped behind Texas A&M today after Colorado had held them to a 1-12 decision.

The Aggies, meanwhile, rolled over Baylor 14-0 for their sixth straight season and their fourth shutout in six starts, thus gaining stature in the eyes of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the AP balloting.

Out of 168 voters this week, 59
put the Aggies on top and 54 listed them second.

Out of 168 voters this week, 59

Two Rice reserves, fullback Mac Taylor and halfback Monte Robicheaux, quite the team. Coach Jess Neely said both boys were seniors and decided to concentrate on their books.

The 15 Owls who saw the most action against Texas worked briefly in sweat clothes. Neely scheduled some contract for Tuesday.

Halfback Larry Duetit, tackle
Larry Whitmore and guard Mack Kennedy were on the injured list.

'Must' Fight for DeMarco and Akin

BOSTON (AP) — Former welterweight king Tony De Marco and veteran Virgil Akins meet for the Massachusetts version of the world's 147-pound championship tonight in a scheduled 15-round bout which shapes up as a slugfest from the opening bell.

Realizing victory a "must" to stay in contention for world recognition, both fighters were prepared to shoot for a knockout in their Boston Garden class unavailable to television and radio audiences.

"I'll be looking for a knockout, but I'm ready to go the distance if I can't find the opening," a determined De Marco said, "I just want to win and I will."

"I'm going to shoot for an early knockout—the quicker the better," Akins said. "This is the biggest chances of my career and I'm not going to fluff it."

De Marco, the No. 1 contender for the title vacated by Carmen Basilio's advance to the middleweight championship, was made a 10-0 choice by the odds-makers.

De Marco, 35, lost his title to Basilio after a 70-day reign in 1955.
Akins, 29, is ranked No. 5 and in the National Boxing Ass. and Ring Magazine ratings, respectively.

De Marco has a record of 5-9-1, including 31 knockouts, and has been stopped four times, twice by Basilio in title matches. Akins has a 45-15-1 mark, with 24 kayos.

The second place, Rochester Americans, who dropped a 3-2 decision to Springfield on Saturday, bounced back to defeat the Providence Reds 4-3. The Americans scored three times in the middle period and then held off the Reds to gain the narrow decision.

Buffalo edged the Cleveland Barons 2-1 in Sunday's final appointed Lou Johnson's goal at 2:24 of the third period a 2-2 tie which had existed since the second period.

The Bears who edge Buffalo, 1-0.

Drinking and Smoking Invite Cancer

By ALTON L. ELAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy drinking plus heavy smoking equals greater risk of throat and mouth cancer, especially for pipe and cigar smokers, a cancer researcher said today.

Heavy drinking was defined as consistently taking seven or more shots of hard liquor a day.

Heavy smokers who do this run 10 times the risk of cancer of the larynx, or voicebox, and the mouth than heavy smokers who drink moderately or not at all.

The relative risk appears greater for pipe and cigar men than cigarette smokers, said Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research here.

The findings apply only to drinkers of hard liquor, he told the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society. Not enough wine and beer drinkers have been analyzed yet for conclusive data.

Wynder said he cannot tell whether alcohol alone can start the mouth and throat cancer. He hasn't enough data on heavy drinkers who aren't heavy smokers to make a comparative study.

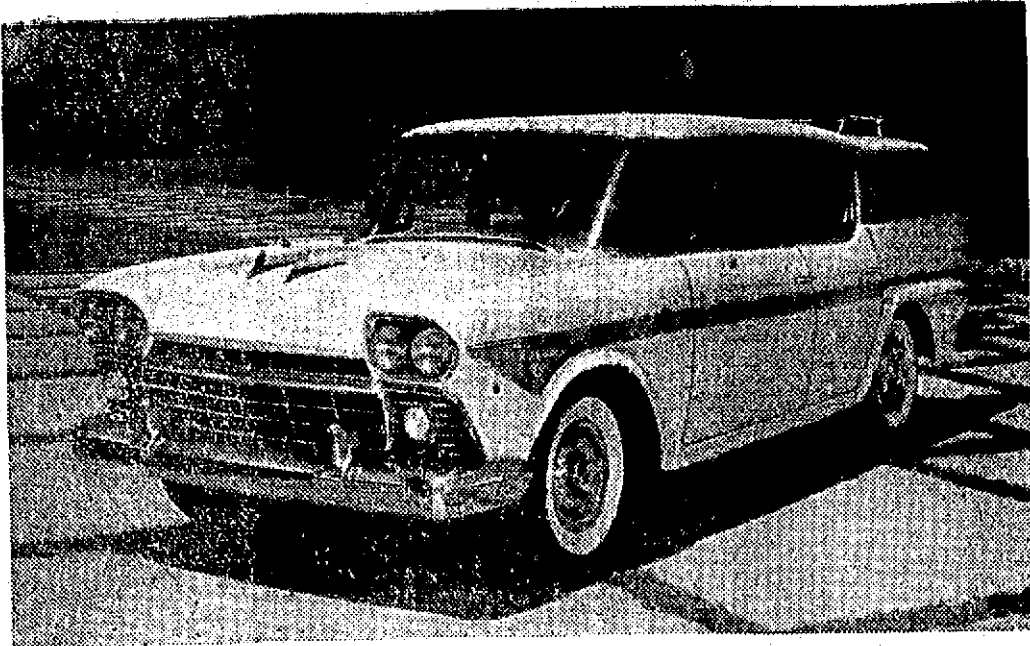

Purely as theories, he said, alcohol might make the throat and mouth tissues more permeable to tobacco smoke, or heavy drinking might produce diet deficiencies making the tissues more susceptible to cancer-causing agents.

Lung cancer has been associated with cigarette smoking by some statistical studies, with little effect blamed on pipe or cigar smoking.

Wynder said pipe and cigar smokers in his new study had a higher incidence of cancer higher up in the respiratory tract.

The study is based on 209 men with cancer of the larynx, 209 men of the same ages free of cancer, 132 men with lung cancer, 343 men

UN Delays Debate on Middle East

By TOM HOGG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Assembly's debate on the Syrian-Turkish crisis went into a cooling-off period today to await results of King Saud's try at mediation.

There still was no indication from Damascus, however, that the Syrian regime would send representatives to Saudi Arabia to negotiate with the monarch and the Turks on the latest threat to peace in the Middle East.

Turkey dispatched Minister of State Fatih Rustu Zorlu and two aides to Saudi Arabia yesterday. There was speculation in Ankara, the Turkish capital, that Saud would propose at least a token withdrawal of troop reinforcements which Turkey sent to the Syrian border after pro-Soviet army officers took control in Syria.

Syria grudgingly proposed a three-day suspension of the U. N. debate, until Friday, to block a U. S. backed Paraguayan proposal to hold up discussion indefinitely. The 82-nation Assembly approved for hospital administration personnel at the Albert Pike Hotel in Little Rock last week.

Ed I. Rephan and Bernard Rephan of Hot Springs were Thursday business visitors in Prescott and Hope.

Mrs. C. G. Johnson, Miss Lillie Butcher, Mrs. Ray Stalton and Mrs. L. L. Evans attended a district WMU meeting at the Central Baptist Church in Magnolia Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. N. R. Nelson and Lynn returned Thursday from a two weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pope of Long Beach, Calif. and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nelson of Bisbee, Ariz.

Mrs. Burke Shelton has recently returned from a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Ballister and family of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Martha Palmer and daughters of Little Rock.

Mrs. Jack Gilmore, Mark and Lee have returned to Little Rock after a weeks visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert were called to Lake Village Friday due to illness of Mr. Gilbert's mother, Mrs. H. O. Ross of McGehee who is ill in a hospital there following a heart attack.

the Syrian amendment 37-10 with 34 abstentions.

The Syrians had declared an hour earlier in the Assembly that mediation was being urged only to confuse the Assembly and demanded that debate start at once, by Syria and Russia, that move for delay gained quick headway among delegates after U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge welcomed Saud's efforts. He appealed to Syria to match Turkey's good faith by agreeing to take part in the talks.

The American call for mediation was quickly echoed by Afghanistan, Paraguay and in effect even by Egypt, Syria's closest Arab ally.

Lodge hailed King Saud as a great leader and urged that his efforts to attain peace be given a chance.

"We think that the General Assembly should wish the governments concerned success in their worthwhile endeavor," Lodge said, "and defer any further consideration here pending the outcome of the mediation efforts."

Contrasting Turkey's assurances of good faith with the "contrived bluster" of the Soviet Union, Lodge accused the Kremlin of trying to stir up trouble in the Middle East.

He declared Russia's charges that the United States had conspired with Turkey to invade Syria appeared to have been brought up as a "screen for Soviet expansionist aims."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko warned that unless the U. N. deals with the Middle East issue, the world would be faced "with frightful events."

Commenting on efforts to defer debate pending mediation, Gromyko declared any delay in consideration of the crisis would amount to "throwing 'dust into the eyes' of the world while the United States and Turkey move against Syria."

Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar led off the debate, accusing the Western nations of blocking nationalist Arab movements when they cease to serve Western ambitions.
